Dear Sirs:

In May of this year, the Third International Philatelic Exhibition was held in New York City, under the auspices of the Association for Stamp Exhibitions.

The exhibition medal was designed by Mahonri MacIntosh Young. It depicts a Pony Express rider riding at full speed toward the right. A rising sun in the lower left sends out rays which are so shaded as to add motion and speed to the design. Above, in raised letters, appears the inscription "International Philatelic Exhibition, New York, 1936", while below, on a raised surface, but with the lettering indented, is a space for the name of the winner of the award.

Would you care to have one of these medals, in silver, for your collection. If so we shall be most pleased to arrange to send you one.

Yours very truly
